Workshop Description:

The BACP Ethical Framework requires practitioners to monitor how those they work with experience their work together, and also the effectiveness of this work. As supervisors how do we actually do this? Do you conduct regular meaningful reviews with your supervisees? If so, in what ways has this impacted positively upon your supervisory relationships? Does your supervisor hold regular reviews with you? If not, would you like them to? This workshop will offer opportunities to share different attitudes towards, and experiences of, holding supervision reviews, and also different methods used to conduct them. There will also be an opportunity to try out a reflective tool for preparing supervisees for a review.

The Presenter:

Jamie Rance is a BACP Senior Accredited Counsellor and Supervisor working in the fields of Substance Misuse, Employee Counselling and Private Practice. He obtained a Diploma in Consultative Supervision in 2013 and has an independent supervision practice in Cardiff.
